University House Aobayama is Finished & Open to Residents

As reported in the 2018.4.2 issue of Gakusei Shien Dayori, construction on University House (UH) Aobayama has been completed. The grand opening ceremony was held on September 19, and the dormitory started accepting residents in October.

By living at UH Aobayama, residents will experience and benefit from the UH dormitory system's concepts of "developing an international outlook" and "cultivating cooperativeness and interpersonal skills." Both of these are aimed at preparing the next generation of leaders for the global stage.

About UH: this system provides housing for Japanese and international students. It aims to develop a cosmopolitan perspective and intercultural understanding through daily interaction and foster global human resources open to overseas experiences.

Information on the Tohoku Innovation Human Resources Development Program (DATEntre)

The Tohoku Innovation Human Resources Development Program (DATEntre) was selected in June 2017 as part of MEXT's Career Development Program for Foreign Students in Japan. This program, which is aimed at international students who wish to work in Japan, operates through a regional industrial/academic/government consortium to foster work-ready HR that will drive future economic growth in Japan. Participating students belong to the regular curricula of this and three other universities in the prefecture (Tohoku Gakuin University, Tohoku Institute of Technology, and Miyagi Gakuin Women's University) and want to build a career in Japan. The program starts every April and October. It provides support to international students who want to work in Miyagi Prefecture and other parts of Japan as well.

Curriculum

According to the Corporate Employment Survey of International Student/Advanced International HR (DISCO Inc., 2017), over 50% of Japanese corporations require that foreign employees have a high level of Japanese proficiency. Moreover, the findings of a post-job hunting interview survey of international students indicated that when seeking employment in Japan, an advanced level of proficiency in business Japanese is mandatory for the application forms, job interviews, and group discussions, and to ensure that foreign applicants can express their field, motivation for applying, and enthusiasm. It is also necessary for them to gather information and make preparations at an early stage. For this reason, the program focuses on enabling students to communicate in Japanese and effectively use it in business situations via a curriculum of Japanese language learning, career education, International Co-learning/PBL, and internships. This curriculum incrementally increases their understanding of Japanese corporate/institutional culture.

Events

In the past we have arranged venues for corporate representatives and students to meet each other and interact in person, including the Tohoku Area International Students Job Fair, networking event for international students and global companies (held in cooperation with JETRO), and the Internship Fair for International Students. By arranging such opportunities, students can learn in advance what skills they need to work in Japan while corporations can assess the students' Japanese/communication abilities, and learn of any considerations in the event that they actually employ them beforehand. We plan to hold such events in the future too as they provide students a chance to apply what they have learned.

The Kawauchi Kita Campus Monument

In June 2018, a monument (clock) was built on the Campus Mall in front of the Kawauchi Subway Station. It was constructed using a grant from the former Second Senior High School Alumni Association.

The south side of the monument has a relief of a hornet, which was the mascot of the high school.

We hope that it will become a familiar landmark for students and staff in the coming years.

About Second Senior High School

The Second Senior High School (Daini Kōtō Gakkō, or Daini Kōtō Chū Gakkō at the time of its founding) was a high school established in 1887 in the Sendai area under the former high school system.

The school had a unique character, as expressed by the school motto, "Yūdai Gōken" (which roughly translates as "Superlative Vigor"), but was consolidated with Tohoku University in 1950 during the post-war educational reforms.

Warning on Internet Usage

The Internet (including SNS/social media) is a familiar and useful tool. However, even small online mistakes have a way of snowballing into unforeseen problems. Please read the following scenarios and use them as a starting point to consider your own online habits.

○Scenarios

- 1 You post a photo you took with a friend on an SNS group. Your friend then tells you they didn't want you to share it. You remove the photo, but the damage to your friendship has already been done.
- 2 After playing against another university for your sports circle, you, in the heat of the moment, Tweet an insulting comment about the other team. The post goes viral.

○Points to consider when using the Internet/SNS

- Everyone has a different standard for what information they are comfortable with posting online.
- Once you post something, it is extremely difficult to remove it completely.
- Please remember that the Internet connects people of all backgrounds from around the world!
- The following activities are strictly forbidden:
 - ① Online harassment, insults, libel, and threats.
 - ② Violations of privacy.
 - ③ Discrimination based on race, ideology, or faith.

○A few tips on student life

- 1 Observe good road etiquette. There are many bicycle and motorcycle accidents involving collisions or falls in the autumn and winter seasons. If road conditions are bad, please consider using public transportation instead of your own vehicle.
- 2 We are entering another party season. Please drink responsibly to prevent alcohol-related injuries and/or disturbing the peace.
- 3 Keep an eye on your belongings to prevent theft. Always keep valuables with you and consider putting two locks (in two different places) on your bicycle/motorcycle.
